

UNDERSTANDING MATCH-FIXING IN SPORT: THEORY & PRACTICE

Edited by Bram Constandt & Argyro Elisavet Manoli

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements

Contributors

Introduction: Towards a better understanding of match-fixing

Bram Constandt & Argyro Elisavet Manoli

Section I: Theory

Chapter 1: Match-fixing: A “normal” part of past sport?

Mike Huggins

Chapter 2: Match-fixing as a social institution between pre-modernity and rationality

Eike Emrich, Freya Gassmann, Michael Koch, & Werner Pitsch

Chapter 3: Match-fix or perish? Match-fixing as a commercial solution

Argyro Elisavet Manoli and Georgios A. Antonopoulos

Chapter 4: Network governance and match-fixing

Maarten van Bottenburg

Chapter 5: Understanding match-fixing from a normalization perspective

Stef Van Der Hoeven & Annick Willem

Section II: Practice

Chapter 6: The Macolin Convention and the complexity of sport competition manipulation

Mike McNamee & Norbert Rubicsek

Chapter 7: A legal perspective on match-fixing

Joanna Tweedie & John Holden

Chapter 8: Combining criminology and forensic science to detect match-fixing

Fiona Langlois & Stefano Caneppele

Chapter 9: Crime triangle theory and match-fixing in Brazilian football

Felippe Marchetti, Leticia Godinho, Alberto Reinaldo Reppold Filho, & Renan Petersen-Wagner

Chapter 10: Psychological perspectives on match-fixing in sport: Existing evidence and policy recommendations

Vassilis Barkoukis and Deirdre O'Shea

Chapter 11: Assessing public and sports policies to tackle match-fixing

César de Cima and Marcelo Moriconi

Chapter 12: A national agency: The case of Sport Integrity Australia

Catherine Ordway & Lisa A. Kihl

Chapter 13: A national approach against match-fixing: The case of Austria

Severin Moritzer, Niklas Neudecker, and Kirstin Hallmann

Conclusion

The present and future understanding of match-fixing: Exploring the building blocks of match-fixing theory

Bram Constandt & Argyro Elisavet Manoli

The book will be published with Routledge in their sport and corruption book series. Routledge's production team is currently working on the book, which will be released in 2022.

Reference

Constandt, B., & Manoli, A.E., Eds. (2022). Understanding match-fixing in sport: Theory and practice. London/New York: Routledge. ISBN: 9780367754921.